

Prof. Dr. Necati Örmeci

He was born in Isparta, Turkey in 1952.

In 1976, He graduated from the Ankara University Medical Faculty, where in 1980 he became a specialist in Internal Medicine, and in 1985 in Gastroenterology. In 1988, He became an associate professor and in 1994, a professor of Gastroenterology.

Presently, He is working in the Ankara University Medical School, Department of Gastroenterology. He is interested in hepatitis B, D, C virus infections, early gastrointestinal cancers and hydatid diseases. Currently, He has around 150 papers written in Turkish and in English and chapters of 17 books.

He is immediate past president of Turkish Gastroenterology Association, an executive committee member of Asian Pacific Association Study of Liver (APASL), an executive member of Hepato Bilio Pancreatology Association..

He is a permanent member of Turkish Sciences Academy,

He is married and he has three children. He fluently speak English, intermediate French and intermediate Japanese.