

Dr Vishal Sharma is presently working as an Assistant Professor at the Department of Gastroenterology, Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research, Chandigarh. He obtained his MBBS and MD (General Medicine) from the University College of Medical Sciences (University of Delhi) and was adjudged the best postgraduate student. He completed his DM (Gastroenterology) from Postgraduate Institute of Medical Education and Research, Chandigarh in 2013. He joined as Assistant Professor of Gastroenterology at Dr RML Hospital, New Delhi and then at PGIMER, Chandigarh.

Dr Vishal has an interest in Gastrointestinal and Liver disease and has around 150 papers in indexed journals. He is on editorial board of four journals and has peer reviewed for around 20 journals. He received M Viswanathan Award for best poster at APICON 2009. He had received travel fellowship from SGEI for DDW 2015. He was part of Abdominal tuberculosis group for formulation of INDEX-TB (Indian Guidelines for extra-pulmonary TB) guidelines. He received Dr MJ Shah award 2017 from Association of Physicians of India for his work on Tropical Gastroenterology.